National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA), Bangkok, Thailand

Conference Theme

"Redesigning Our Common Future for Sustainable Transformation"

Overview

The National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA) was founded on April 1, 1966, in Thailand. It is a higher education institution that aims to meet the country's developmental requirements. NIDA provides programs for postgraduate students at the master's and doctoral levels, prioritizes top-notch research, and offers academic services with commitment. Currently, NIDA offers studies in various development administration fields, consisting of Public Administration, Business Administration, Development Economics, Applied Statistics, Social Development, Environmental Management, Language and Communication, Human Resource Development, Law, Integrated Tourism Management, Communication Arts and Management Innovation, and Business Management.

Over the past consecutive years, NIDA has been hosting three significant annual conferences: the National Conference (celebrated on the institute's anniversaries), the International Conference on Advancement of Development Administration – Social Sciences and Interdisciplinary Studies (NIDA ICADA-SSIS), and the NIDA International Conference for Case Studies on Development Administration (NIDA-ICCS). These conferences aim to disseminate academic work, foster knowledge-sharing and idea exploration, and demonstrate research that contributes to the country's development.

This year, NIDA is organizing the 3rd NIC-NIDA Conference under the theme " Redesigning Our Common Future for Sustainable Transformation. " This theme underscores the importance of revising our path towards a future focused on equity and environmental sustainability. The conference, taking place on August 22-23, 2024, at the National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA) in Bangkok, Thailand, will feature keynote and plenary lectures, as well as panel and roundtable discussions delivered by academics specializing in the mentioned disciplines.

Conference Objectives

1. To provide a platform for researchers, academics, professionals, and student scholars, both nationally and internationally, to discuss Sustainable Development and Sustainable Transformation.
2. To promote the creation and sharing of research in various fields related to development administration, with a special focus on sustainable development, benefiting education, management, and the country's economic, social, and political progress.
3. To support the production and sharing of academic work by NIDA lecturers in the 12 development administration fields, allowing them to present their work to the public.
4. To create an academic environment for scholars from different institutions to exchange ideas, build relationships, and engage in constructive interactions.
5. To offer a platform for academics, professionals, and university students to showcase their research at an international level.
6. To bring together experts and scholars from diverse development administration fields to discuss practical teaching case studies.
