

Message from the President

The 2022 National and International Conference of The National Institute of Development Administration (NIC-NIDA Conference 2022)

The National Institute of Development Administration adopts a new form of academic conference under the new title “The 2022 National and International Conference of the National Institute of Development Administration” or NIC-NIDA Conference 2022. It is a virtual conference which requires online participation from conference presenters and participants while still having a limited number of on-site activities for the safety of everyone. This conference was held on August 18-19, 2022 from 8.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. (GMT+7) via Zoom. The highlights on the agenda under the theme “Turning Challenges into Opportunities: Working toward SDGs, BCG and Inclusive Growth in the Global Economy” were the two keynote addresses delivered by two keynote speakers: 1) Ms. Gita Sabharwal, UN Resident Coordinator for Thailand and 2) Dr. Suvit Maesincee, Former Minister of Ministry of Higher Education, Science, Research and Innovation. There were also other renowned experts from various organizations joining us for an array of other special addresses.

In addition, over 100 national and international academic articles were presented at this conference in the following categories: Teaching case studies and research case studies presentations, paper presentations and Ph.D. consortium presentations. The conference truly served as a public platform for academic, professional and student participants to present their research at the international level.

On behalf of the Institute, I therefore would like to take this opportunity to genuinely thank our keynote speakers and all other experts for their participation, sponsorship and partnership.

Finally, I hope that the NIC-NIDA Conference successfully fulfilled all of its purposes, and that the knowledge, ideas and perspectives learned from this conference would lead to actual operations and practices for the best benefit of our country and beyond.

Thank you.

Keynote speech of Ms. Gita Sabharwal

UN Resident Coordinator in Thailand

Thursday, 18 August 2022

The post COVID-19 world has significantly brought about global structural changes and new normal. Together with floods, drought, supply chain crises, food and energy crisis, global inflation and recession, these crises cause global imbalance among humans reflected through inequality as well as those between mankind and nature leading to unsustainability. Thus, this calls to action for a fundamental change in our mental model from ego-centric to eco-centric approaches.

Keynote speech of Dr. Suvit Maesincee

Former Minister of Ministry of Higher Education, Science, Research and Innovation

Friday, August 19, 2022

Thailand is aimed to achieve SDGs by means of the BCG economy model with a significant focus on inclusive growth that complies with the UN's broader global development agenda. As the Sufficiency Economy Philosophy has been a longstanding pillar of Thailand's transformative aspiration, the UN has been a close partner in these endeavours and worked collaboratively in tandem with many entities, ranging from the Royal Thai Government, provincial administration, the private sector, and other stakeholders, including NIDA over the years. We are proudly working together to leave no one behind and enhance human capital.
